Real-sample analysis based on organic field-effect transistors

Tsuyoshi MINAMI - University of Tokyo, Japan

Toward real-sample analysis, we have developed easy-to-use chemical sensor chips based on comprehensive and cross-hierarchical research on areas ranging from molecules to devices. In this talk, representative works related to the quantification of biomarkers in real samples by organic thin-film transistor-based chemical sensors will be presented.