

Fabiola Marino obtained her Master Degree in Biology in 2012 at UNICAL. In 2014 she obtained her M.Phil. degree at UMG. In 2017 she obtained the PhD degree in Life Sciences at UMG. In 2015, she joined the Laboratory directed by Prof. Ellison-Hughes at King's College London. She has been a Post-Doc in the MaCCardio Lab at UMG from 2017 to 2021. In 2021 she holds a Research Fellowship at KU Leuven University under Prof. Sampaolesi's supervision. Fabiola is currently Assistant Professor in the Experimental and Clinical Medicine Department at UMG.