

Laura Vergani is professor at Mechanical Engineering Department of Politecnico di Milano. Her main research topics are related to composite materials, in particular sandwich panels (studies with Heinz), fatigue and fracture mechanics. Her most recent interests are devoted to the field of biomechanics with a specific focus on bone micro-damage mechanisms.